BURIN PENINSULA GUIDE

Let's visit Burin Peninsula.

Newfoundland and Labrador's Burin Peninsula is beautiful, with picturesque fishing villages, rugged coastlines and outdoor adventures galore.

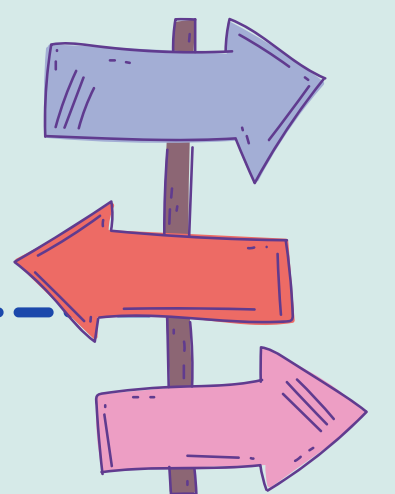

The Burin Peninsula is located on the south coast of Newfoundland. The Atlantic Ocean serves as a border between Burin Peninsula and St Pierre and Miquelon, a french island off the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador.

You can find plenty to see and do on this peninsula. It's not just its endless grassy fields that make the Burin Peninsula special.

There are plenty of attractions to keep you busy, from nature walks to historical sites and museums.

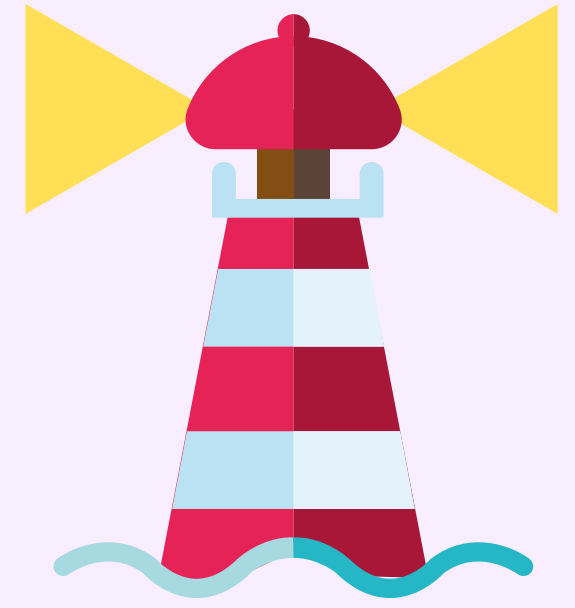

This peninsula is home to the famous Provincial Seamen's Museum, which displays a diverse collection of artifacts

To gain insight into the history of families living on the peninsula for thousands of years.
